The board of directors is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles and Swiss law; this includes the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error. The board of directors is further responsible for selecting and applying appropriate accounting policies and making accounting estimates that are reasonable in the circumstances.

Auditors' Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with Swiss law and Swiss Auditing Standards as well as auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditors' judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Opinion

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly in all material respects, the financial position of Swiss Credit Card Issuance No. 1 as of December 31, 2014 and 2013 and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the years then ended in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles and comply with Swiss law.

2.10 Interest income and interest expenses

The interest income of the Corporation mainly contains interest proceeds from the Issuer Certificate No. 1.

Interest expenses in general contain all interest expenses of the Corporation in relation to interest paid to the noteholders of the class A, B & C-notes.

3 Concentration of credit risk

Based on the Corporation's structure and the nature of business, the Corporation is economically closely related to Swiss Payments Assets AG (a subsidiary of Swisscard AECS AG). The major asset of the Corporation consists of the Issuer Certificate No.1 that entitles the Corporation in its share of the securitized portfolio held by Swiss Payments Assets AG. There are several structural risk mitigation factors in place to protect the bondholders of the Corporation from the risk of credit losses and as a result from impairment of the certificates. These risk mitigation factors were also required by rating agencies in order to provide a investment grade rating. Credit Suisse AG as Originator of the receivables has certain risk policies, controls and procedures in place to manage and mitigate credit risk as part of its servicing activities.

4 Income taxes

Currently, the Corporation has a tax ruling in place with the relevant tax authorities of Switzerland for income taxes. The tax ruling defines the required minimum profit for the taxation of income taxes in Horgen, canton Zurich (incl. cantonal and federal taxes). Due to the concept of Contingent Interest, the Corporation only receives the revenues and the cash flows needed in order to obtain the minimum profit amount and to cover all its expenses.

Based on the Corporation's business there are no valuation differences between US GAAP and CO which is also the basis for the tax financial statements as a result there are no deferred taxes for the year 2014.

5 Credit facilities

There are no credit facilities in place for Swiss Credit Card Issuance No. 1 AG with any financial institution to provide liquidity reserves or similar credit facilities.

Concerning refinancing of the Corporation, please refer also to note 10 Commercial paper outstanding / notes.

6 Derivative financial instruments

No derivative financial instruments are used by the Corporation.

7 Financial instruments (leveling)

The fair value hierarchy prioritizes the inputs to valuation techniques used to measure fair value and categorizes instruments into three broad levels for disclosure purposes. The fair value hierarchy gives the highest priority to quoted prices in active markets (Level 1) and the lowest priority to unobservable inputs used in model-based valuation techniques (Level 3). The fair value hierarchy level in which an individual instrument falls should be determined based on the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement of the instrument in its entirety. Instruments that are not measured at fair value, e.g., accrual-based instruments, bifurcated hybrid instruments where the host remains at accrual value, and items in hedge accounting relationships, need not be included in the fair value hierarchy level disclosures. However, instruments that are measured at fair value on a nonrecurring basis, e.g., assets held at the lower of cost or fair value or assets with other-than-temporary impairment, would be included in the hierarchy level disclosures only in the period in which the measurement to fair value was recorded and separately disclosed as part of nonrecurring disclosures.

Level 1

Level 1 instruments are defined as those with prices that are quoted in active markets. An active market is a market characterized by high volume, either for a specific security or an entire exchange. Usually, active markets are more liquid and have small bid/ask spreads. Assessing whether an instrument or an entire market is active is a subjective determination. In considering the application of this definition, a number of factors (e.g. volume, sufficient frequency, volume transparency, liquidity, spreads) can be considered.

Level 2

An instrument that does not meet the definition of Level 1 or Level 3 will be classified as Level 2. Generally, Level 2 instruments include fair value amounts of assets or liabilities that are priced by using:

- a) Quoted prices for identical assets or liabilities in markets that are not active, adjusted for concentration risk and market illiquidity (i.e., stale reserve) etc., or
- b) Quoted prices for similar assets or liabilities in active markets, adjusted as appropriate provided that adjustments are objectively determinable (e.g., restricted securities, or private placements), or
- c) Valuation techniques (modeling) that are based on significant market-observable inputs:
  - 1) Inputs other than quoted prices that are observable for the assets/liabilities, or
  - 2) Inputs that are derived principally from or corroborated by observable market data by correlation or other means.

Level 3

Level 3 inputs are defined as those that are unobservable. For an instrument to be classified as Level 3, the unobservable input(s) must be significant to the fair value measurement of the instrument in its entirety. Unobservable inputs are those where there are no reliable quotes or transparent activity information available in the marketplace. The use of significant unobservable quotes does not disqualify the use of fair value measurement.

The following table provides the carrying value and fair value of financial instruments which are not carried at fair value in the balance sheet. Beginning in January 2012, US GAAP requires the disclosure of the fair values of these financial instruments within the fair value hierarchy prospectively.
